

“We could Work for Nothing”

In December 2008 Gettelfinger told the Washington Post,

"We could work for nothing and it wouldn't help GM make it to January."

So how will more concessions help Ford make it till April Fools?

Gettelfinger made concessions

in 2003 at GM-Delphi, Ford-Visteon, Chrysler;
in 2004 at American Axle;
in 2005 at GM, Ford, Chrysler, and Lear;
in 2006 at Visteon;
in 2007 at GM, Delphi, Ford, Chrysler;
in 2008 at American Axle.

Concessions didn't help.

Concessions didn't save jobs.

Concessions didn't make the companies more competitive.

Concessions hurt workers.

Despite the fact all these concessions failed, Gettelfinger insists another round will do the trick.

It's fair of us to ask, "What's the trick?"

Cause we have heard all this schtick before and we know it doesn't work ..... for us.

We can't take another inning of Gettelfinger "at the plate".

The First Order of Business is letting the Corpos know we Will Not Pay for their Mistakes.
