

FaceBook notice for Friday's forum with Jorge Parra, leader of the General Motors-Colombia hunger strikers

Thursday, September 20, 2012

The GM-Colombia hunger strikers are entering a critical period when their health will rapidly decline.

Is GM waiting for someone to die before making a serious offer in compensation for injuries on the job?

Even before the hunger strike, union members were already risking their lives living in Colombia, the nation with the world's highest murder rate for union-activists.

Let's send the message Alex proposed at the Speakout:

All is NOT right with GM, in the US or around the world.

To view a FaceBook event notice for this Friday's forum with Jorge Parra, leader of the General Motors-Colombia hunger strikers, please click this link*:

General Motors-Colombia Hunger Striker, Univ. of Detroit 10am Fri Sept 21
<http://www.facebook.com/events/496286513716125/>

For the leaflet for the event, please click this link*:

Join CLASA and HASA to hear a talk by Jorge Parra, President of ASOTRECOL, the Association of Current and Former GM Colmotores Workers
<http://www.xpdnc.com/files/relatednewsandreports11/ParraFlyerUDMSept212012.pdf>

The forum is at:
the McNichols (at Livernois) campus of University of Detroit
Commerce and Finance Building, Room 138
10 am
Friday Sept. 21

Ron Lare, 313-492-7657 takes voice mail and text messages - ronlare@sbcglobal.net

* editor update